Electric Light Electric Heat Electric Power

USE ELECTRICITY: IT IS SAFE AND CONVENIENT

OUR constant endeavor is to give the best possible uninterrupted service at the lowest cost to our consumer, consistent with the cost of producing electricity in Amherst, and a fair return on the investment involved.

By the employment of competent and courteous assistants the company endeavors to make the use of electricity, in all its forms, a comfort and convenience; and by prompt attention, remove, as far as possible, every troublesome cause of poor service.

Our aim is to give the people of Amherst as good electric service as it is possible to obtain anywhere. Our belief is that as the convenience, adaptability and safety of electricity becomes better understood, its use will enter more largely into the home, the store and the office.

That the use of electricity bears a direct relation to the health, happiness and economy of a community; we firmly believe, and by our best endeavor we propose to merit the generous patronage of the people of Amherst.

We are prepared to make connection to any house, store or office within the reach of our circuits, for any form of electric service desired. We are constantly on the lookout for new and useful ways of using electricity, and are always ready to give our customer the benefit of our knowledge.

Amherst

Amherst, a town of about six thousand inhabitants, is beautifully located in the valley east of the Connecticut river and north of the Holyoke range of mountains. It is the seat of two noted educational institutions—Amherst College and Massachusetts Agricultural College—and contains several high grade private schools. Originally a portion of the town of Hadley, it bore a part in the early conflicts with the Indians. In every national crisis she has taken her place with the foremost. Her history is intensely interesting, the more so as one learns of the details.

To-day Amherst is one of the most delightful towns in Massachusetts. There is a healthy public sentiment, while the character of the people is most excellent. Public improvements are constantly being carried forward, and the intellectual and moral interests keep pace with all else. Amherst is noted for its well kept lawns and grounds which expresses in no small degree the ideals of the people. The town is especially desirable as a place of residence. Its public schools and its churches are of the very best. The atmosphere is wholesome, alike to body and mind.

Two railroads pass through the town. The Boston & Maine (Central Mass. division) and the Central Vermont (New London Northern division).

There are two lines of Electric railroads. The Amherst and Sunderland, built in 1897, has tracks laid to Sunderland, Pelham and to Mountain Notch which connects with the Holyoke Street Railway Company.

The other line is the Amherst terminus of Connecticut Valley Street railway, with general offices in Northampton. The distance from Amherst to Northampton is covered in thirty-five minutes; fare, 10 cents. This road was built in winter 1899-1900.

Amherst College

Amherst College was founded in 1821, Charter was received Feb. 21, 1825. The college has had in all nearly 6,500 students and nearly 4500 alumni, of whom about two-thirds are now living. Little aid has been received from public funds. The edifices, grounds endowments, which now exceed $2,000,000 in value, are almost entirely due to private munificence.

The Presidents of the college have been:

Rev. Zephaniah Swift Moore, D. D., 1821-1823.

Rev. Heman Humphrey, D. D., 1823-1845.

Rev. Edward Hitchcock, D. D. LL. D., 1845-1854.

Rev. William Augustus Stearns, D. D. LL. D., 1854-1876.

The four-year curriculum of the classical course leads to the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and that of the scientific course leads to the degree of Bachelor of Science. A student whose recommendations have been approved and whose examinations have shown him qualified for admission to Amherst College, is received as a member of the College and is trusted to conduct himself as a gentleman, in obedience to law, maintenance of order, and with that regard for Christian institutions which becomes a member of a Christian college.

No one can be admitted to the Freshman class until he has completed his fifteenth year, nor to advanced standing without a corresponding increase of age. Special students are not received unless they have substantially completed the preparatory studies required for one of the courses leading to a degree; and exceptions to this regulation are made only in case of men whose exceptional maturity, or exceptional fitness for certain lines of college work makes it evident that they are prepared to profit by college work rather than by work in a preparatory school. Such students are required to take as many hours of work each week as do candidates for degrees.

The Christian life of the College finds expression thorough the College Church and the College Young Men's Christian Association. A service for public worship is held in the College Church every Sunday morning at quarter of eleven, and there are prayers in the chapel every week-day morning at half-past eight o'clock. Other religious services are held regularly.

The college grounds embrace about 87 acres; and the more prominent of the college buildings are as follows, with the year of their erection,

South college dormitory, (1821) rebuilt 1891
North college dormitory, (1822) rebuilt 1892
Johnson chapel, (1827)
College hall, (1828) restored 1905
Hitchcock hall, (1833) rebuilt 1892
President's house, (1834) rebuilt 1892
Observatory and Woods Cabinet, (1847)
Morgan Library, (1853)
Appleton cabinet, (1855)
Williston hall, (1857)
Barrett gymnasium, (1859)
Walker hall, (1869)
College church, (1871)
Pratt gymnasium, (1883)
Physical and chemical laboratory, (1893)
New observatory, (1904)
Pratt Swimming pool, (1905)

Other real estate of the college embraces Blake field, Hallock park, and the Pratt athletic field, all within five minutes' walk of the college campus.

The Johnson chapel is used chiefly for recitation and classroom work. The view from the top of the tower in clear weather is unsurpassed. College hall is reserved for commencement exercises and occasional lectures and entertainments.

The Observatory contains an 8 1-2 foot telescope and numerous other astronomical instruments. In the Woods cabinet is a collection of meteorites and minerals, and a well equipped room for geological lectures. Hitchcock hall is a dormitory and boarding house.

The Morgan library contains nearly 65,000 volumes, and is the fourth in size of the college libraries of the country. It is free to all members of the college. In the porch of the library is a fine collection of early Assyrian sculptured slabs, dating back to 900 B. C., and obtained from the ancient Nimroud.

In the Appleton cabinet are the unique Hitchcock collection of fossil tracks in stone, the Adams collection in Zoology, the Gilbert museum of Indian relics, and the famous Audubon collection of birds. This building also contains the lecture rooms and laboratories of the biological department.

Williston hall contains Greek and Latin class-rooms, and on the third floor the Mather collection of art.

The Barrett gymnasium is the first college gymnasium built in America, and in it was inaugurated the Amherst system of gymnastics and anthropometry.

Walker hall contains mainly recitation rooms and the president's room, where meetings of the Boards of the Trustees and the Faculty are held. On the third floor is the exhibit of the college which was at the World's Fair in Chicago, 1893.

The college church, the gift of William French Stearns, is reserved exclusively for Sunday services. The Pratt gymnasium is used for the gymnastic exercises and physical training of all the students of the college, for numerous gymnastic exhibitions, and for festivities of Commencement week. The building contains a billiard room, bowling alleys, sparring room, bath rooms, an athletic museum, a large collection of banners and pennants won by the student organizations, and the rooms of the professor of hygiene.

THE PRATT HEALTH COTTAGE

three-fourths of a mile from the College grounds, was erected during the year 1896-97, the joint gift of George D. Pratt of the class of 1893, Herbert L. Pratt of the class of 1895, and John T. Pratt of the class of 1896. Students temporarily disabled by disease or accident may receive treatment in accordance with the liberal provisions of the donors. Provision is made for the expenses of a limited number of patients by funds given in aid of needy and worthy students, one in memory of Rev. E. K. Alden, D. D., of the class of 1844, one in memory of President William S. Clark, LL. D., of the class of 1848, and one in memory of Rev. Thomas P. Field, D. D., of the class of 1834.

The college is situated one mile north of the center of the town of Amherst, on an estate of four hundred and three acres. The principal college buildings are eleven in number. There are two brick dormitories capable of holding about one hundred and twenty five students. The well equipped chemical and zoological laboratories are located in a large wooden building which also accommodates the mathematical department. The stone chapel occupies a prominent position and is a decided ornament to the college grounds. The lower story contains the college library, and the upper one is used as a general assembly room for the entire student body. The library contains nearly 27,000 volumes and with one exception is the most complete of its kind in the country. The commodious drill hall is used during the winter for military exercises. It also provides for target practice during that season. At the extreme south of the college grounds are the buildings of the veterinary department. The central building provides lecture rooms and laboratories, while in the rear is a hospital with accommodations for a few of each of the various kinds of domestic animals.

The large barn which stands near the center of the college farm is a model of its kind and is well worth inspection. Connected with it is a wing which affords accommodations for the dairy and for the practical dairy instruction.

The most recent building erected by the college is the dining hall, which has seating capacity for some three hundred and fifty students, while the second story affords accommodations for the family of the steward and contains a few well furnished suites of rooms for the ladies pursuing studies in the College.

Situated on a hill on the opposite side of the college grounds is the botanic museum, together with the glass houses of the horticultural and botanic departments. Besides recitation rooms this building contains a valuable herbarium and a great variety of models and charts. In the rear wing of the building is a finely equipped botanic laboratory. The entomological department not far distant occupies a large wooden building which has recently been enlarged and which now contains a large lecture room and laboratories both for under-graduate and advanced students. This building is one of the best equipped of its kind in the country and contains a large collection of finely mounted specimens of insects.

There is now being erected a large building for the accommodation of the horticultural department. This will contain several lecture rooms and laboratories both for under-graduate and advanced students. When completed it will be one of the best buildings on the college grounds.

Besides the buildings which have been named, there are on the college estate five dwelling houses and numerous smaller buildings used for various purposes.

The grounds about all of the college buildings are very tastefully laid out. In the agricultural department a large area is kept under cultivation for purposes of instruction. The grounds in the immediate vicinity of the green house are devoted to ornamental gardening. Here may be seen a very large variety of trees, shrubbery and flowers. The extensive orchards and vineyards of the horticultural department are near, as well as the large area devoted to market gardening.

The regular course of study occupies four years and the degree of Bachelor of Science is awarded to those completing it. All studies during the first two years are required. Elective courses are offered during the Junior year, while all the studies of the Senior year, excepting bacteriology, the constitution of the United States, and military science are elective. Advanced study leads to the degree of Master of Science or Doctor of Philosophy,

The study of the various sciences such as chemistry, botany and zoology, upon which agriculture is based, form a prominent part of the course. Thorough instruction is also given in mathematics, mechanics, physics and practical surveying, as well as in history, political economy and modern languages. All students not physically disabled are required to drill three hours per week.

Besides the regular four years course, the College offers a two years course in horticulture, open only to women; and short courses in dairy farming, horticulture and bee culture. The short courses are open to persons of both sexes and tuition is free to all citizens of the United States.

THE HATCH EXPERIMENT STATION.

The Hatch Experiment Station is situated upon the college grounds. It has two large brick laboratories devoted respectively to investigations in chemistry and in vegetable physiology and pathology. There are also three large barns for the storage of crops and for experiments with farm animals. A considerable area of land is devoted to plot experiments for the purpose of studying the growth of plants under different methods of treatment.

The Experiment Station is supported by funds supplied by both the national and state governments. It was instituted for the purpose of aiding the farmer by investigating the manifold problems connected with the various lines of agriculture.

The official control of the sale of commercial fertilizers and food stuffs centers here. A great variety of fertilizers, cattle foods and dairy products as well as drinking waters are yearly analyzed. It is found necessary in some cases to make a charge sufficient to cover the cost, but if the work promises to be of public interest, no charge is made.

The Station is organized under seven distinct divisions: agricultural, horticultural, botanical, chemical (fertilizer section), chemical (foods and feeding section), entomological, and meteorological.

The Station staff is as follows:

William P. Brooks, Ph. D., Acting Director and Agriculturist

George E. Stone, Ph. D., Botanist

Charles A. Goessmann, Ph. D., LL. D., Chemist (fertilizers)

Joseph B. Lindsey, Ph. D., Chemist (foods and feeding)

Charles H. Fernald, Ph. D., Entomologist

Frank A. Waugh, M. S., Horticulturist

J. E. Ostrander, C. E., Meteorologist

Henry T. Fernald, Ph. D., Associate Entomologist

Frederick R. Church, B. Sc., Assistant Agriculturist

Sidney B. Haskell, B. Sc., Second Assistant Agriculturist

Neil F. Monahan, B. Sc., Assistant Botanist

Henri D. Haskins, B. Sc., First Assistant Chemist (fertilizers)

Edward G. Proulx, B. Sc., Second Assistant Chemist (fertilizers)

Edward T. Ladd, B. Sc., Third Assistant Chemist (fertilizers)

Edward B. Holland, M. S., First Chemist (foods and feeding)

Philip H. Smith, B. Sc., Assistant Chemist (foods and feeding)

Erwin S. Fulton, B. Sc., Assistant Chemist (foods and feeding)

Joseph G. Cook, B. Sc., Inspector (foods and feeding)

Sumner R. Parker, B. Sc., Dairy Tester (foods and feeding)

Roy F. Gaskill, Assistant in Foods and Feeding

George O. Greene, M. S., Assistant Horticulturist

Walter B. Hatch, B. Sc., Second Assistant Horticulturist

Clifton H. Chadwick, Observer

While the instruction is primarily intended to fit young men for agricultural pursuits, the course is so arranged as to furnish a broad education to all students.

Tuition is free to all citizens of the United States, but Massachusetts students must obtain a scholarship by applying to the state senator of the district in which they live. Students of economical habits will find $250 per year sufficient to cover all expenses.
